"Them's Mine."

Why the Lunch Stand Suspended—One of Joe Nelson's Yarns.

[From the Eureka Sentinel.]

Our friend Joe Nelson, who has recently received the appointment of Under Sheriff, is a genial gentleman, and by all odds the best story-teller in the State. We have known Joe for a great many years, and in all his wanderings, whether as a drug clerk in New York, a bearded miner in South America, a hotel clerk in Virginia City, or a saloon-keeper on Park's Bar in '49, he was always the same jovial, good fellow. In early times in California, Joe was running a popular saloon on Park's Bar, and Kettle-Belly Brown, famous in the annals of the Comstock, and the original of Mark Twain's Scotty Briggs, was also a denizen of that locality. Business was lively, for the placers were rich, and K. B. thought he saw a chance for a speculation, and applied to Joe for a corner in the saloon to establish an oyster stand, which privilege was granted. K. B. entered into partnership with one Smith, the popular Constable at the Bar, and the concern started on the high road to prosperity.

THE OUTFIT CONSISTED

Of one brass kettle and stove, two dozen soup plates, knives forks, etc., and a counter improvised from a plank and two barrels. All the canned oysters were bought up, and when served up retailed at a dollar a plate. "There was millions in it," and K. B. laded out the steaks with much satisfaction beaming from his florid countenance, but with a canker eating at his heart, and his partner was the cause of it. Poor Smith, like all great men, had a weakness, and gentle woman was his failing. In the excess of his gallantry he "set up" the oysters whenever their delicate appetites demanded them, and in setting for them fell back on his half interest, "by remarking, 'them's mine.'"

The thing was growing very monotonous, and K. B. remonstrated with his partner, who promised to restrict his liberality. One evening, after a good run of custom, Brown was persistently stirring the contents of the kettle, and reckoning up the receipts, when a party came in and ranged up to the counter. There were three high-toned sports, four ladies of the Bret Harte type, and Smith. K. B. supposing some of the boys

HAD MADE A WINNING

And was treating on the strength of it, deftly arranged eight plates of steaming steaks in front of the crowd. It was a fearful draft on the contents of the kettle, but eight dollars cash was six dollars profit, thought Brown, as he passed the pickles to a lady, and blandly asked Smith if he would have a little pepper-sauce in his. "Wine was called for and procured at the bar, the band being responsible for it, and the bartender asked if Arkansas Dick "must have struck the right card," and "if he was treating." Brown did not know, but rushed back with the wine, which soon followed the oysters, and the repeat was finished. The guests slowly filed out, the rear brought up by Smith, who, remarked to his partner,

"THEM'S MINE, BROWN."

It was too much. Overcome with rage, Brown seized his ax, and with one fell blow demolished the brass kettle, scattering the stew in all directions, and shouting, "that's mine!" Another sweep of the ax and the soup plates were a total wreck. "Them's mine!" Once more the ax descended, and the counter was kindling wood. "That's mine!" rung out on the air; and as Smith reached the door, the ax, propelled by his partner's vigorous arm, shaved off his left ear, in which lingered the cry of "D—n your heart, 'that's mine, too!'" That is what burst up the oyster stand on Park's Bar.

A Priest Burned to Death.

(From the Allegheny Mail, Dec. 18th.)

A case of fatal burning occurred at Warren, in this State, on Monday night last, a well known Catholic priest, named Father Kew, being the victim. He had disrobed, and was clad only in his underclothing and night shirt, when he stepped to the table on which the lamp stood and picked up a newspaper to read for a moment before retiring. Just at this time it is believed the lamp, which was filled with coal oil, exploded, throwing the oil over the carpet, which was, of course, ignited at once. The victim attempted to stamp the fire out with his feet, and in a moment was surrounded with flame, his night-gown taking fire, which was communicated also to his under garments. He rushed out of the house and rolled himself in the snow, and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. With wonderful courage and presence of mind he then gathered an armful of snow and hastened back to his room, and put out the fire there before it gained sufficient headway to work any considerable damage. For a man of his years, and one who had received a fatal hurt, this was a marvelous feat. At an early hour on Tuesday Father Kew breathed his last. It is not clear, however, that the lamp exploded. The position of the fragments, and the incoherence of the statements made by the injured man, render the opinion justifiable that he overturned the lamp, which was broken, with the sad results stated.

TO SMOKERS.—Upon many persons coffee exercises a very deleterious influence; but they can, and often do, drink a chicory infusion, which tastes very like that of the Arabian berry, though totally destitute of the aroma of coffee. Similarly it is possible that there may be some vegetable which is sufficiently near in flavor to tobacco to render it valuable as a substitute or as an adulterant for the genuine leaf; and it might be well for botanists and chemists to undertake researches with a view to discovering the same. Meanwhile the most successful efforts to render tobacco less hurtful have been those involving mechanical means. The Turkish nargileh or water-pipe, in which the smoke is drawn through water, is probably the least harmful method of smoking practiced, a fact proved by the thick dark scum of oil which appears on the water after use. A nargileh is easily made out of a wide-mouth bottle. The tube attached to the pipe-bowl is led down beneath the surface of the water, which half fills the vessels, and the smoke is withdrawn through another tube which enters the empty space above the water.

Jottings.

The Western Union Telegraph office had an unwelcome visitor last evening. He was singing a tune like the hum of a busy bee, as he entered, through the window, and moreover, was making a "bee" line for the operator's stomach when the solid counter put a damper on his travels. His name was Cold Lead, and he was traveling without baggage.

B. F. Whitmer, Railroad Agent and Postmaster at Verdi, was in town last evening. He will send a storm down this way as soon as certain negotiations with the weather clerk are completed.

Among this term's arrivals at the Seminary is a young lady from Oakland, the city of schools and churches. This is quite a compliment to Reno's educational advantages and the Seminary.

The Riverside Club meets again on Thursday evening next.

The Grand Jury stands adjourned until January 22nd.

GRAND JURY.—At 2:30 this afternoon the Grand Jury came into court and through their foreman, C. H. Eastman, made a partial report. They found true bills against Ah Sing, Ah Hing and Ah Hau; Joseph Wilson for grand larceny, and John Lancaster, assault with a deadly weapon. The Grand Jury then adjourned until January 22nd.

NOT READY.—"Taxpayer" informs us that an unexpected demand upon his time and attention has precluded the preparation of his plan for incorporation. In a few days he will respond to the inquiries of our citizens with regard to the matter.

The Pistol.

Another Chapter in the La Point-Flynn Feud—Three Shots Fired—Flynn Dangerously Wounded.

All of our readers will remember the trouble between Frank La Point and D. H. Flynn some months back, at which time La Point was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Also of Flynn's retaliation and arrest subsequently, he being charged with the same offense. The two men were sentenced to the same fine for these offenses, each being practically acquitted, but Flynn, while awaiting examination, broke jail, and for this offense he was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year. The Board of Pardons liberated Flynn, and he started for California. Upon arriving at Reno last night he stepped off onto the platform where La Point was at work as usual handling baggage. La Point had been informed of his coming. Flynn started to walk up the platform towards town when La Point seeing him immediately drew his pistol and fired, missing him. Flynn did not quicken his pace but crossed over to the telegraph office, when La Point came closer and as Flynn passed the light fired and again missed. At this point Flynn started to run and La Point pursued, firing again just as Elliott's corner was reached. This shot took effect and Flynn fell upon the sidewalk in front of Elliott's hotel. A large crowd of excited men gathered immediately and the wounded man was taken up and carried hurriedly around to Dr. Bishop's office for medical treatment. Drs. Bishop, Johnson and Dawson stripped the clothes from Flynn and found that the shot had taken effect was just at the base of the spinal column. The wound was probed for a short distance, but not sufficiently to learn the exact direction of the bullet. Flynn seemed to be in little or no pain, enduring the operation of probing and washing his wound without murmur. At first his wound was thought to be fatal, but after it was dressed he walked across the street, creating the opinion that he was only slightly hurt. The doctor assures us, however, that it is a very dangerous wound, and the nature of the case renders the result doubtful for some time. If the ball has lodged in the pelvic bone the wound is a severe one; if it has gone further and pierced this bone death will ensue.

The affray was the absorbing topic last night, many different stories were circulated, and everybody knew all about the affair or had seen it. The doctor's office was besieged until a late hour for news of the wounded man, but the impression that Flynn was only slightly wounded served to allay the curiosity. La Point was arrested and lodged in the county jail. His case will probably come up before the present grand jury.

GONE.—Our genial and ubiquitous "localities" has betaken himself to Carson in order that he may know how to introduce a bill to amend an Act to amend an Act entitled an Act to enable somebody to act, &c., &c. We always knew he would go to a bad place, but we have consented, relying upon his feline nature. Legislators may readily distinguish him by his prodigious cheek, and will do well to introduce a bill for his relief before he becomes troublesome. He is armed with a Smith & Wesson and a bunch of pencils. If Parkie will care for his spiritual welfare, we shall hope to see him once more "pure as the beautiful snow."

GLUTTONY.—We saw a bald-headed man last night eat one large porterhouse steak and two dozen oysters, all within the space of one hour. After finishing his repast he complained of the hard times, said he never could save a cent somehow, and always felt sort of depressed. At 11 p. m. he was hungry again. The County Commissioners should examine this man, for he should either be doctored or indicted for gluttony.

ANOTHER WHISTLE.—J. L. McFarlin's engine, to be used in connection with his blacksmith shop, was put in place to-day and allowed to whistle several times just to show that it was a reality. The sound was prophetic of a new industry in our town, and we hope to hear it daily during the coming season.

ARM BROKEN.—We heard of a man having his arm broken last evening, but persistent inquiry failed to elicit his name. We understand that it was the result of a scuffle, and the young man in falling broke his arm.

INCORPORATION.—To-night all taxpayers are invited to meet with the Board of Trade at Justice Richardson's office at 7 o'clock to consider the question of town incorporation. The advocates of the measure must come to the front or the incorporation business will prove a failure. We need an incorporation, but there are some difficulties in the way which must be removed. Prominent among these is the building of a bridge across the Truckee. It is clear that the town cannot have control of the streets without having control of the bridge also, and it is further clear that a town incorporation without control of the streets is a poor affair. The entire county receives direct benefit from the bridge, hence it has been suggested that the bridge be built by the county, and then an act of incorporation be effective for the town. Others hold that we can voluntarily tax ourselves one-eighth of one per cent for street purposes, enforce existing laws with reference to nuisances, etc., and get along better without an incorporation for the next two years than with it. Those favoring the measure say that with a new bridge the small tax of one-half of one per cent will subserve all purposes of a limited corporation and gain for us increased respectability, enhance our comfort, keep good streets and clean alleys, a more efficient fire department and the suppression of public nuisances. To-night the subject will be more fully ventilated than ever before. Be on hand early and go posted and say something to the point.

THE PILGRIM.—Sam. Hazlett, the printer tramp, known throughout the Pacific coast as "Pilgrim," paid this office his regular visit this morning. About ten years ago the writer of this item first met "Pilgrim" in an interior California town, and to-day he stood before us clothed about as then, looking not one whit the older from the lapse of time, the whiskey he has drank, or the physical sufferings he must have experienced. Year after year he has gone tramping on, until his physiognomy is familiar to almost every printer on the coast. The heat of Summer and the snows of Winter seem all one to him—he has no ambition but that which leads him to drink. Food is with him a secondary consideration, and as for bed the barroom chair or, if need be, the warm side of the gutter suffices. He has, for the past two or three years, been growing something of a nuisance to the craft in this section. His trips do not cover so much space as formerly, and the abundance of more reliable men in many instances obviates the necessity which used to make his visits somewhat welcome. "Pilgrim" left Reno this afternoon on a freight train, bound for "fresh fields and pastures new." May his pilgrimage be an extended one.

LEGISLATIVE VISIT.—Reno is to be honored by a visit of the Committee on State Institutions, from the Assembly, on Saturday next. This committee comprises the following gentlemen: Buckingham, of Storey; Moore, of Elko; Grey, of White Pine; McIntosh, of Ormsby, and Shoemaker, of Washoe. These gentlemen will visit us in obedience to a resolution introduced by Hon. J. S. Shoemaker, instructing the committee to visit the new prison near Reno and report upon it immediately.

That portion of the Governor's message relating to the State Prison at Reno was also referred to this committee.

COURT NOTES.—The District Court was opened for business this morning, His Honor, Judge Wright, presiding. In the case of Manning & Duck vs. Consolidated Poe Mining Co., a certain portion—which we could not learn—of the amount claimed was allowed and judgment ordered in favor of plaintiff for said amount.

A jury was then impaneled to try the case of L. D. Wickes vs. M. Lippman. On motion plaintiff's counsel was allowed to amend his complaint and the court was adjourned until to-morrow at 10 a. m., plaintiff paying costs of court to-day.

LOST.—At the Reno Opera House, on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 2, a fine pair of gloves with fur around the wrists. The finder will confer a favor by returning them to the Rev. C. L. Fisher.

Mrs. S. A. Milliken, Hair Dresser. All kinds of Hair work done to order. Comings made up in first class style at San Francisco prices. Corner of Central and Plaza Streets, Reno, Nevada.

WANTED.—A woman or girl to do general house work. A No. 1 situation. Apply at this office immediately. 11-287f

STAGE.—Hymers and Chism's stage for the Pyramid Lake mining district will leave Reno on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7 a. m. Returning will leave the mines on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m. This arrangement to take effect until further notice.

ATTENTION SHAVERS.—S. Schwartz notifies all of his old friends that his barber shop has been temporarily established in the International Hotel. He would like to meet his old patrons at the new quarters, and will turn them out as good looking as ever. Those who need "chin fixing" will take notice. 10-21

WESTERN STAR SALOON.—R. Pendola, the proprietor of this saloon, which is situated on the west side of Center street, keeps constantly on hand the choicest beverages of all kinds and the best brands of cigars. Among his choice drinks are Pendola's favorite, pineapple, cabinet, Pendola's punches and the renowned ambrosial cocktails, all of which are daily dispensed at the Western Star. Every attention is paid to patrons. Order and civility is the rule at this saloon. 10-21

HOMEOPATHY.—Dr. R. H. Chase, for many years a Homeopathic Physician, now intends to make Reno his home, and announces to the public that he will treat all cases to which he may be called to attend, according to the latest and best methods in the Homeopathic practice. Office on Virginia street, near the Reno Library. 8-21f

WARNER'S SANITARY CORSETS.—Mrs. Marsh would inform the ladies of Reno and vicinity that a supply of the above corsets and child's waist and hose supporters, may hereafter be found at Miss Golden's millinery store, Virginia street. 8-21f

A large assortment of Ladies' fine Slippers and children's fine shoes at John Underland's.

RENO ACADEMY.—English, French and German Day School, will open on Monday October 2d. Thorough and practical instruction in the elementary and higher English branches. Daily lessons in the theory and practice of vocal music and French, without extra charge. Special advantages offered to those wishing to pursue a course of English history and literature. The second quarter will commence January 8th, 1877. For further particulars apply to Mrs. FRANCES A. KNOX.

NOT A VICTIM.—The New York World says: Among the multitude of saddening anecdotes connected with the Brooklyn fire, it is cheering to come upon one that has its humorous aspect. On that fatal night two youths, one a resident of Newark and the other of Brooklyn, attended the Brooklyn theatre. They left the building previous to the last act, as the Newark boy had persuaded his Brooklyn chum to go home and sleep with him, and it was necessary to leave early to catch the train. No hint of the terrible disaster reached them until the next afternoon. The day after that the Brooklyn boy returned to his home. He found a hearse at his father's door and all the appliances of a funeral. Ringing the doorbell he was met by the servant girl who nearly fainted at the sight of him.

"Whose funeral is this?" said the boy. "It's your own, darlin'," said the girl; "we got your body yesterday at the Morgue, and you're just after being buried."

The denouement may be imagined.

This comes to us from the "Gopher City"—Pensacola:

Some little while ago, at a bar conclave at a Southern hotel, generals, majors, etc., were each, with much declamation, giving an account of an incident of the war. A quiet man stood by, and at last said:

"Gentlemen, I happened to be there and perhaps might be able to refresh your memories as to what took place," and he gave, succinctly and inoffensively, an exact detail of a smart action.

The hotel-keeper said to him: "Sir, what might have been your rank?"

"I was a private," was the reply. Next day the quiet man, as he was about to depart, asked for his bill.

"Not a cent, sir; not a cent," answered the proprietor. "You are the very first private I ever met."

A SMART BIRD.—A quail in Paris deserves mention in print. The bird has been kept for two years in a cage with other quails destined for the market. Whenever a customer appears the quail we speak of perches on one leg and frizzles himself up into a fluffy ball, which is a sign of illness in quails. The customer looks at him with disgust and says, "No, not that quail, the bird is sick;" and so this ingenious volatile lives on in peace and comfort, while his companions depart one by one to their respective toasts. —N. Y. World.

CASTING OUT DEVILS.—J. A. Bedient has been casting out devils and organizing praying bands of weak-minded women in the vicinity of Kansas City, and has excited the animosity of the men in the neighborhood to such a degree that he was lately mobbed and hanged by the neck till he was nearly dead. He is charged with imposture and various indiscretions of a serious kind with his female disciples.

George D. Carroll, a Custom-house Inspector at the Hoboken Ferry, saw a fat man, whose face seemed familiar, approaching the turnstile, and something in his actions aroused suspicion. The officer asked him to take off his overcoat in the waiting room, and was surprised at the lean appearance of the man as he ran through the door and escaped on a boat. One thousand dollars' worth of silk was found in his coat lining.

A young lady in Paris is said to have sneezed for twenty-seven hours.
